

Detritus

fall/winter 2025
Jennifer Sze

Inspirations for my designs stemmed from when I had feelings of isolation after losing myself to a hollow period in my life. Deriving from that point, I metamorphosed into a new version of myself, a grown version. Through my lens, life is just a cycle of death and rebirth; death does not have to be physical nor scary. After taking a walk on a winter day, seeing all the dead leaves crushed up on the ground, it made me wish for the leaves to show their vibrant colors again. I wish to show the beauty in this modular collection by showing the full cycle of clothes and how one piece can be worn for its full cycle of life without the need to buy a whole separate garment.

Within my work, I create a balance between the delicate and macabre aspects of nature though light drapery and sharp structural pieces. My designs are functional and modular which can support the wearer. Pieces in my collection can be taken apart and reconstructed to create a new look. Throughout this collection, there are snap closures on sleeves that can be switched with other looks, creating triple the amount of designs with just only five base pieces. Each piece was carefully thought out to be versatile and adaptive, and the possibilities are endless. For example, a skirt can be turned into a top with a drawstring fastener. By having this system, a sustainable approach can be taken to reduce the amount of new clothes without sacrificing the allure and design.

Petunia

Delphinium

Dahlia

Perennial Grass

Silt

Hydrangea

Gladiolus

Bubble half drop stripes
1/50 x 3
77% Cotton
23% Nylon
12 gg

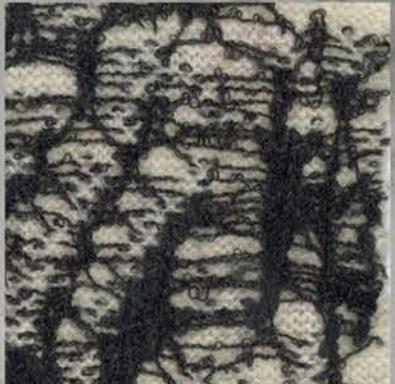

Pin Tuck pattern
in Flechage
1/40 x 3
100% Wool
10 gg

Jacquard
150D x3
100% Recycled
Polyester
14 gg

Lace mesh rib
30/3 x 3
50% Cotton
50% Silk
12gg

Double layer jersey
2/30 x1
100% Wool
12 gg

Jersey
2/40 x 2
100% Wool
10gg

Flechage Knitting
1/34 x2
77% Silk 77%
23% Nylon 23%
15gg

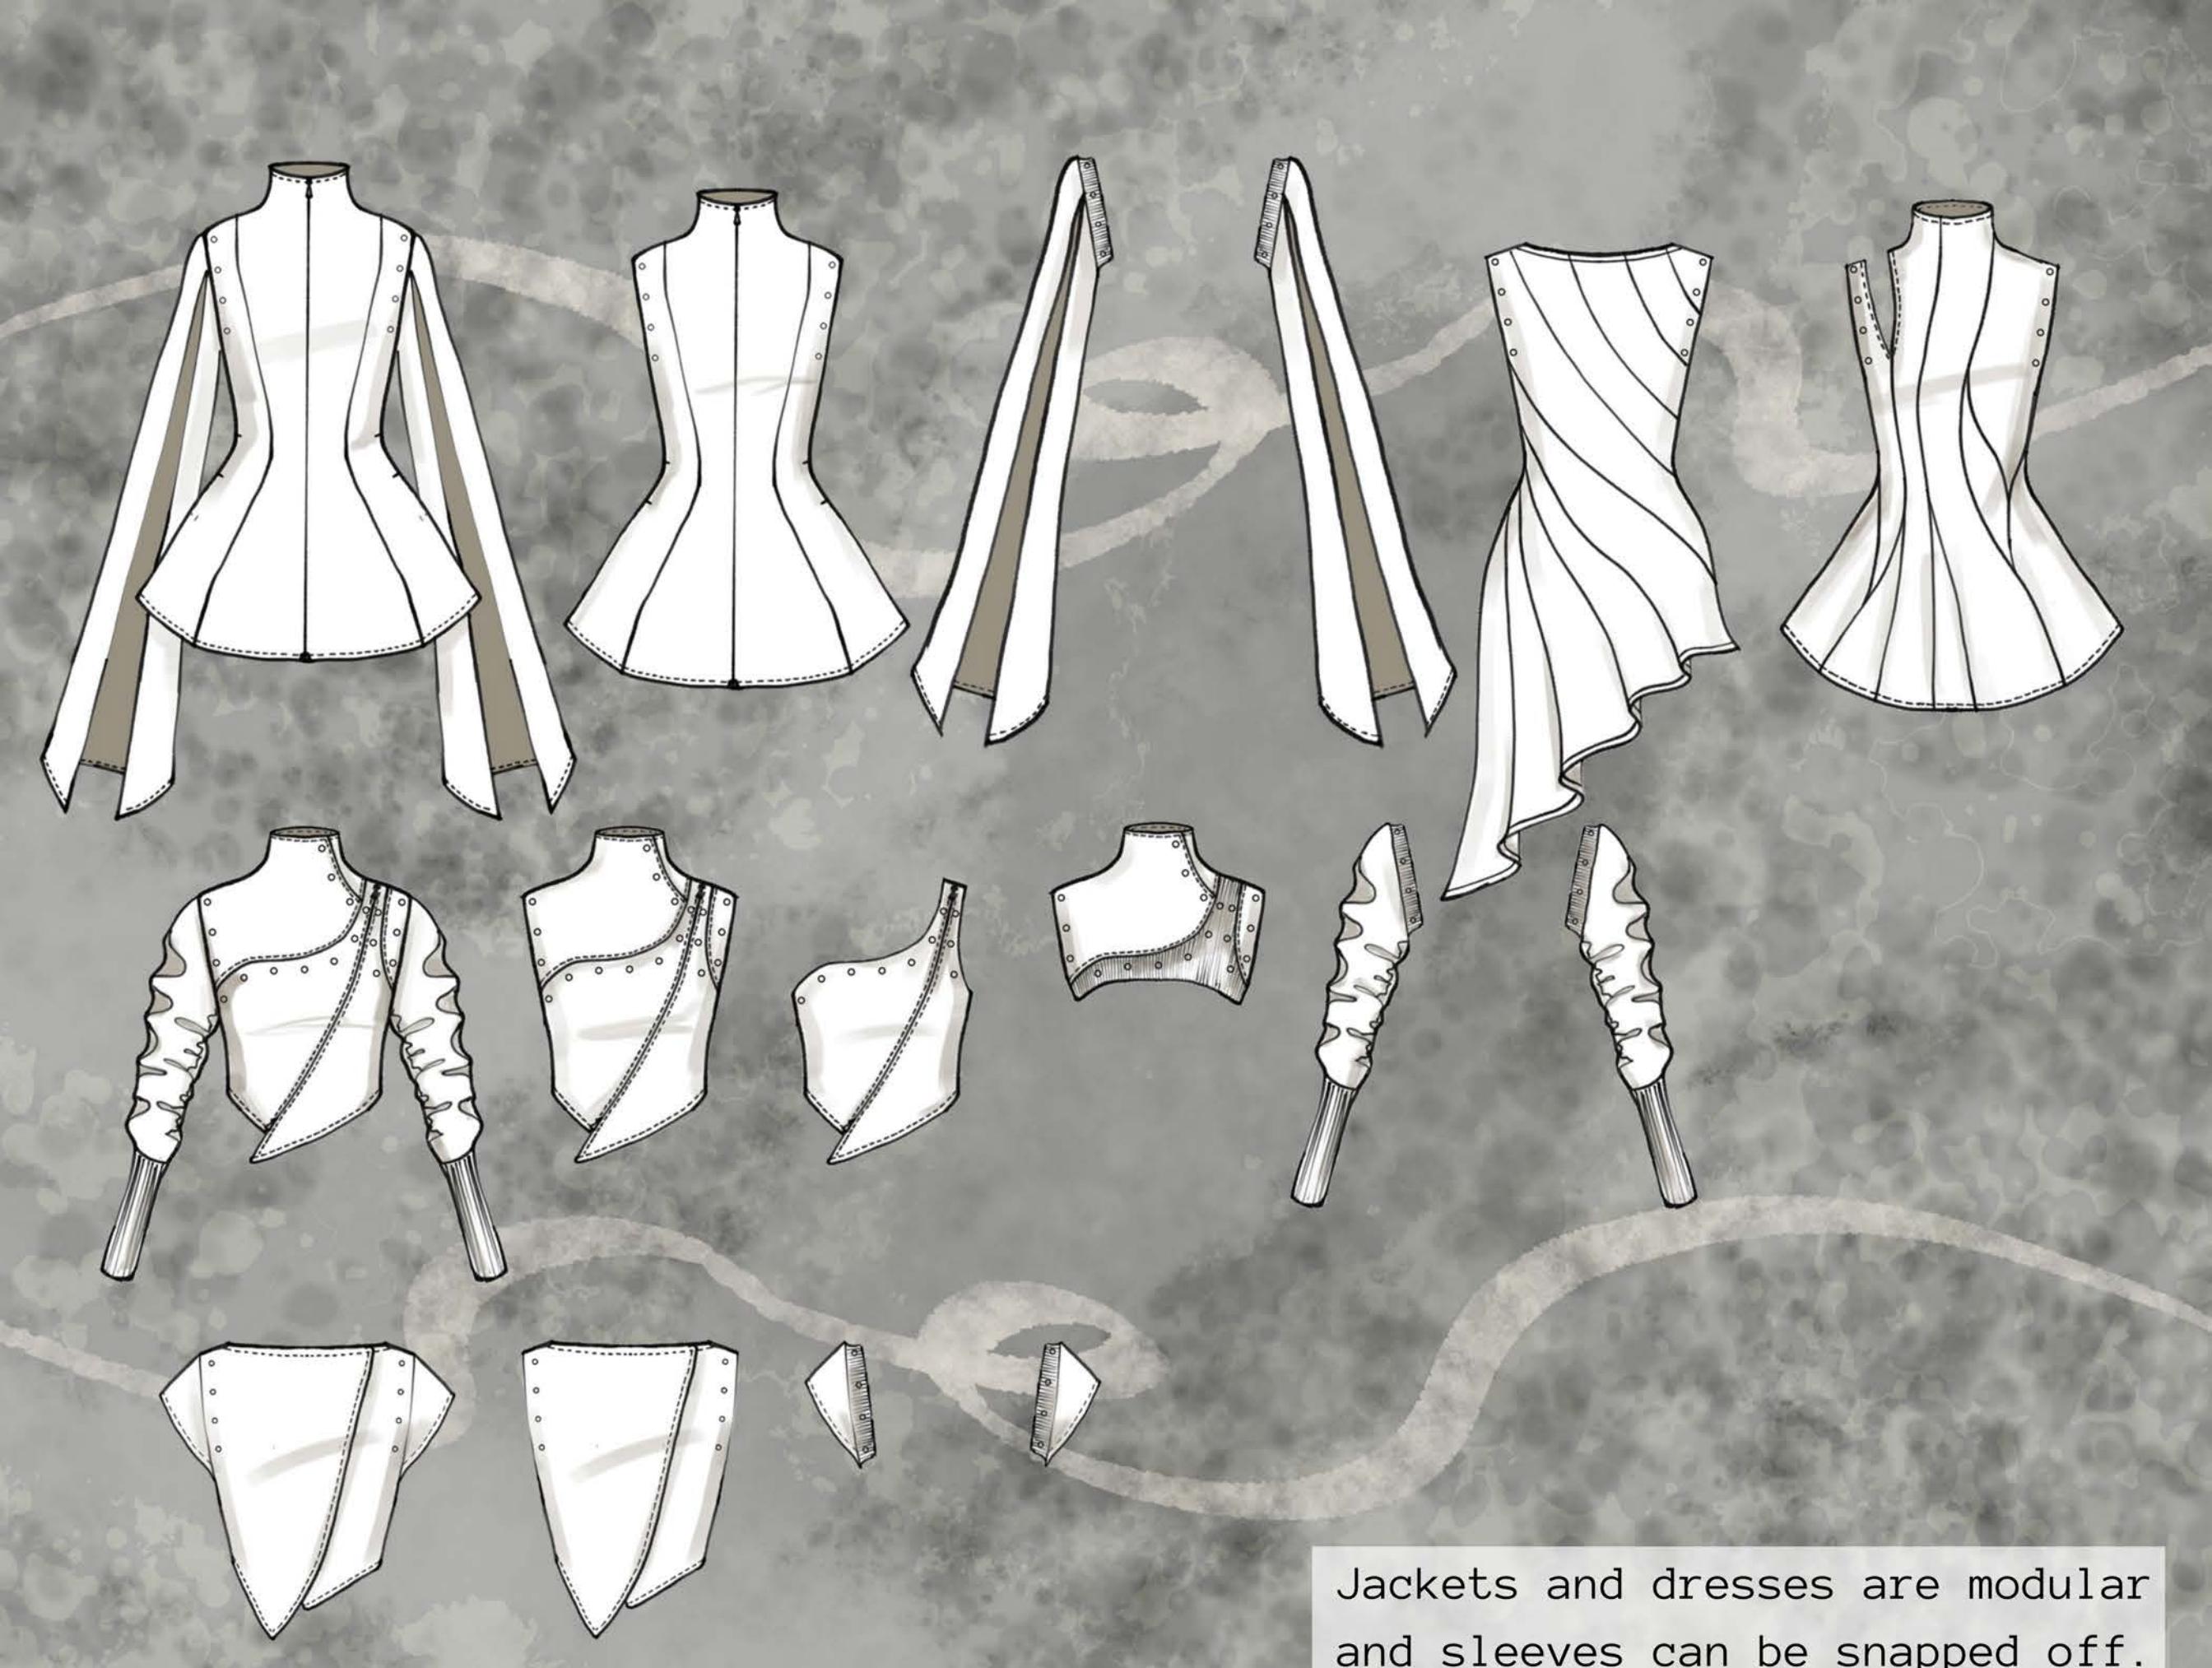

Move pattern
1/1.8 x1
40% Alpaca
40% Cotton
10% Viscose
10% Mohair
3gg

Snap Closure Sample

Jackets and dresses are modular and sleeves can be snapped off.

Pants can be detached to create capris and leg warmers.

Dress can be switched to a top and layering skirt.

5 bases x 3 sleeves = 15 different combinations

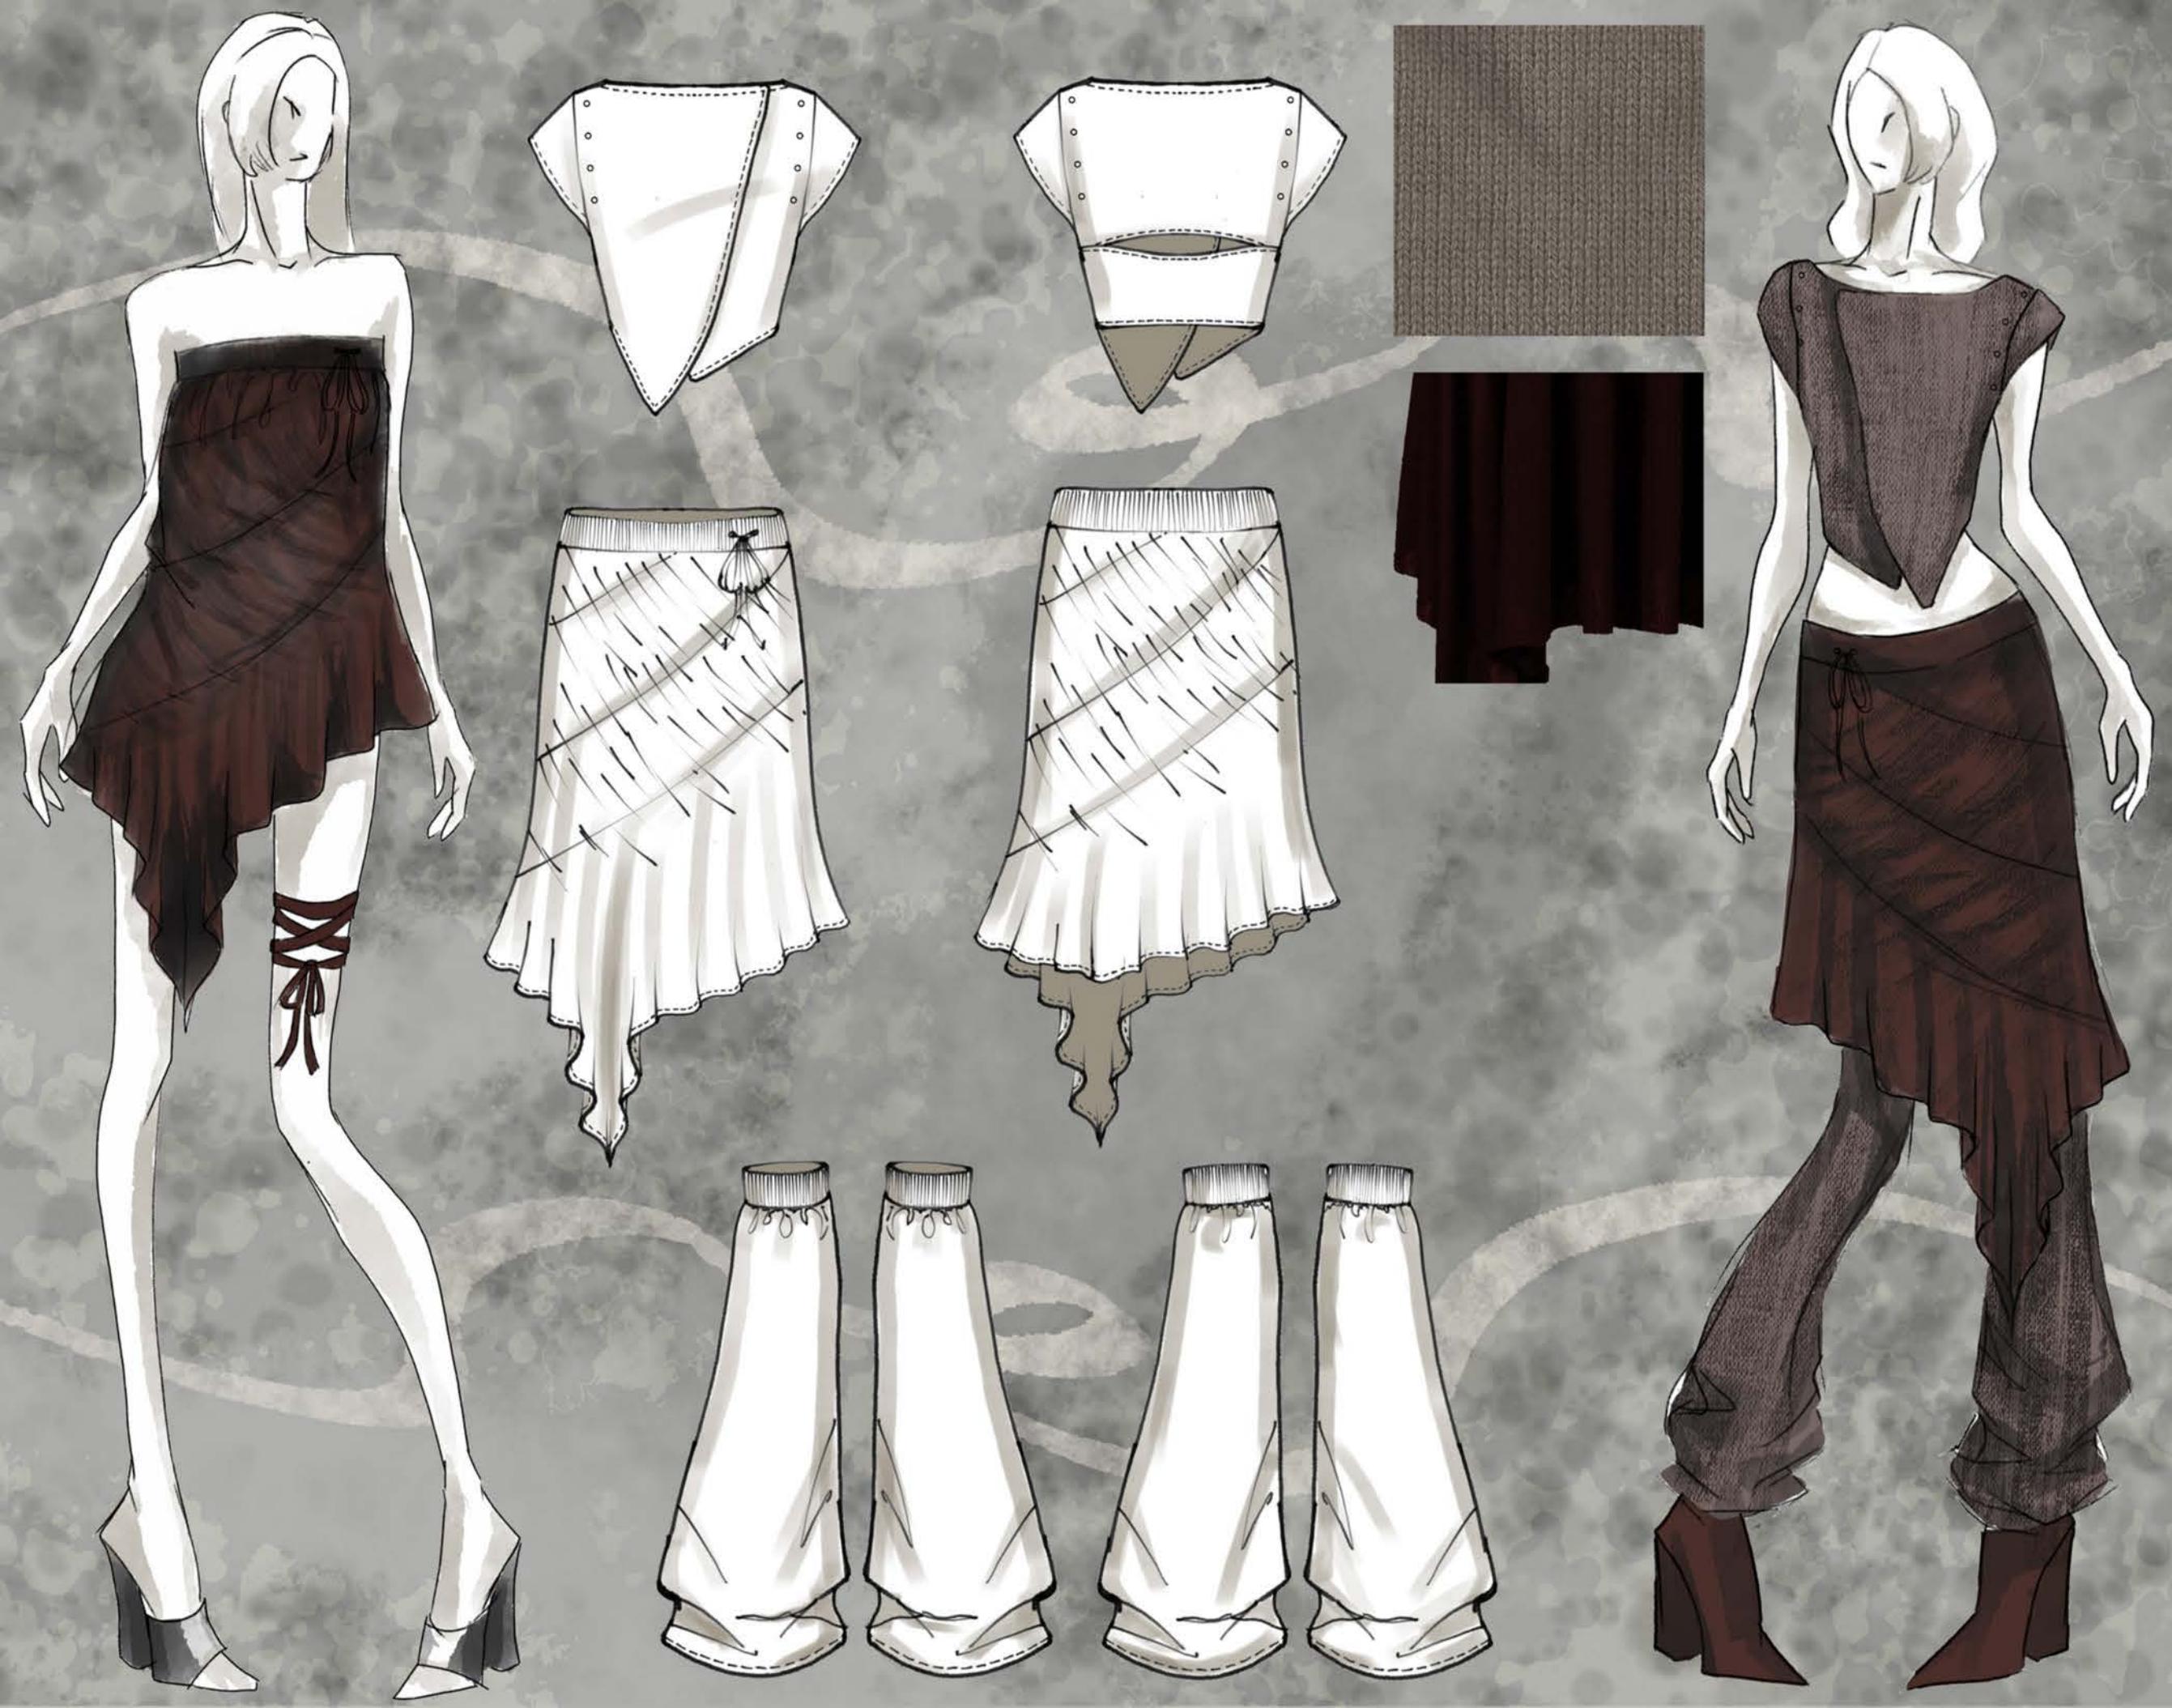

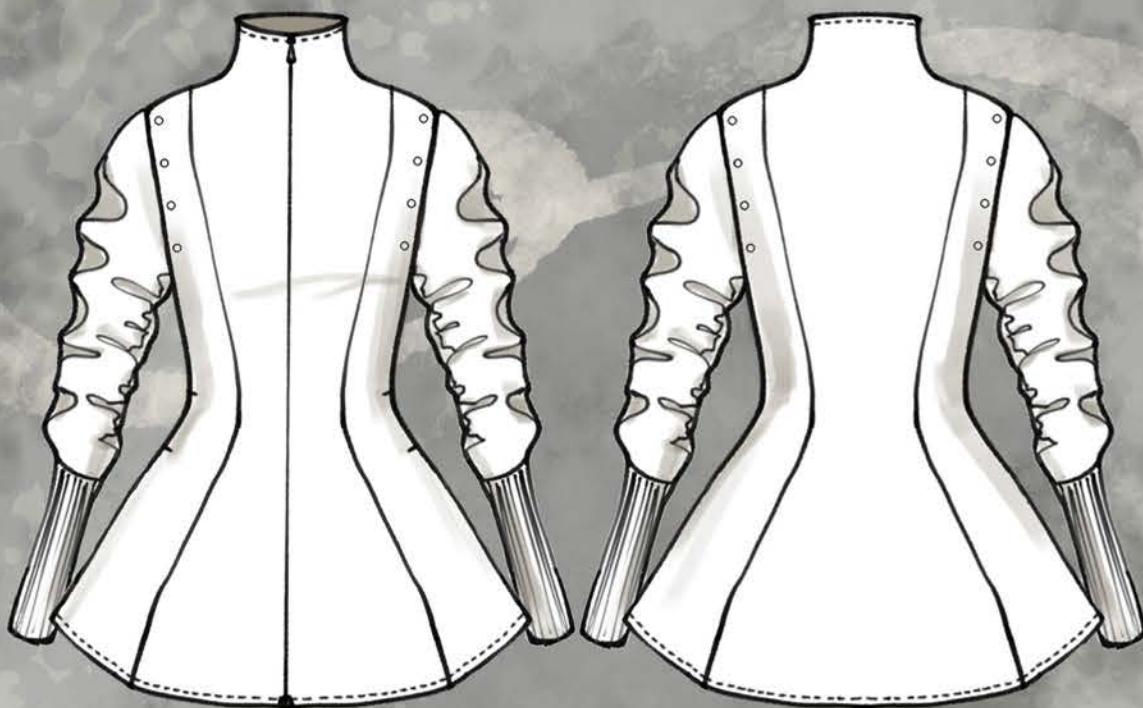

Contact

jennifersze29@gmail.com

jennifersze.com